Shooting a Pugilist.

The air has been full of rumors yester day about a shooting scrape which took place, as alleged, at Fallon's Cottonwood villa, on Sherman avenue, last night. The dry goods store on Sixteenth street. Both story was to the effect that a number of pleaded guilty. Omaha pugilistic lights, conspicuous McCormick, house disthe road cussing the merits of various fighters, when a dispute arose as to Mcormick's prowess. That worthy, it is said, became wrathy, and suddenly I out his right square into the face of : man who was making light of him. A free fight, it is said, followed, in which revolvers were drawn. McCormick, it i alleged, was shot, receiving serious though not necessarily dangerous wound Where he was taken to, or what became of the man who did the shooting could not be ascertained, Professor P. J. Fallon who was que tioned about the matter yesterday after-noon, denied that any such affair had happened at his plac. He could not ac-count for the rumore, but thought that it was originate by some envious person who wanted injure him or the reputatiou of his place.

Later on in the day it was reported that McCormick's wounds had been received in a brawl at a saloon in South Omaha, and that he had died. Me-Cormick since the fight in which he broke Al Marx's jaw, has been ar rogant in the extreme, and tried to "lord t over" men whom he considered in ferior in pugilistic ability. It is proba-ble that the trouble of Monday night arose from his too free display of these

RAILROAD TAXATION.

An Interesting Discussion Before Judge Wakeley Yesterday Morning. The much mooted question as to the right of the city to tax all railroad property within the corporate limits, was be fore Judge Wakeley yesterday morning, and was discussed by Mr. Poppleton for the railroads and by City Attorney Connell on behalf of the city.

The question arose on a demurrer filed by the city, to a petition of the Union Pacific railway company, asking for an injunction to prevent the collection of taxes assessed against certain property belonging to the railroad company.

It was claimed by the city attorney that notwithstanding the state law requiring railroad and telegraph companies to make returns of its property to the state board of equalization, that the city had power to assess all such property as might be within the limits of the city, the same as the property of other corporations and individuals is assessed. Mr. Poppleton de-nied the correctness of this proposition, and contended that for the purpose of city taxation the pro rata proposition of milage, as determined by the state board of equalization, was the only proper sys tem of the taxation of railroad right-ofway, depot, grounds, etc. Mr. Popple-ton also urged that even is such system was not correct, all objection thereto should be addressed to the legislature, in place of to the courts

During the argument, the city attorney asked Mr. Poppleton if he denied the proposition, that under the present state law, if the charter in express terms gave the city the right to tax all rairroad property within the limits, according to valuation, the city would have such right, and that such right would not be in conflict with the state law.

To the question of the city attorney, Mr. Poppleton responded, that if such charter provision was enacted subsequent to the state law, the city would probably have such right, and it would not be in conflict with the state law.

Upon the conclusion of the arguments. Judge Wakely took the case under advisement, and will probably render his decision before the adjournment of the present term of court.

With regard to the taxes involved in the litigation, it was further claimed by Mr. Poppleton as a matter of fact that the city had already collected taxes for the year in controversy, according to the system for which he contended, and the city attorney admitted that if such was the fact, the city could not again collect taxes for such year upon a valuation as-sessment, for that would amount to double taxation

The principal question involved still remains for settlement by the charter amendment committee, and it is probable that in view of the admission of Mr. Poppleton that the charter may be so amended as to assess all railroad property for city taxation according to valuation that such an amendment will be made.

The same condition obtains with reference to Mr. Smith's lot immediately eas of the Merchants' National bank, which is now in course of erection on the cor ner of Thirteenth and Farnam streets. It is probable that in each of these Mr. Smith's determination to build will be made in a few days, because the buildings contemplated can now be erected with much less expense than if they would be put up at a different time.

Careless Friends.

Yesterday morning a well dressed lady in the lobby of the post office wrote the following address upon a parcel and deposited the latter for transmission: "Mrs. M. E. Weeks, G. T. Smith's block, room 88." There is no such place in town. and to find out where the building in question is, Superintendent Evers will be compelled to make inquiries of the post-masters in many of the leading cities. The parcel contains a beautiful chenile shawl, which is evidently intended as a present, and yet, as it now stands, it will not be able to reach its destination. Mr Evers says that the majority of parcels addressed in the office are badly directed, and result in either untold annoyance or loss of the package, and frequently both.

THE COURT MARTIAL SYSTEM. An Army Officer Makes Comments Thereon.

"It is a startling fact, shown up by relable figures," said an army officer vesterday; "that 50 per cent of the soldiers in department were, during the past year, tried by court martial. Most of them, of course, were tried for petty offenses, such as drunkenness, being off duty without leave of absence. This is a pitiful showing, and at the same time its truth can not be disputed. It proves that there is something radically wrong with the present system of court martial. As the thing is now, if a soldier goes off or be-comes intoxicated, he is immediately tried by court martial, and sentenced to a term in the guard house. That relieves him from duty and throws the work on the men who behave themselves. This discourages the good soldiers and helps the bad ones. The fact is there ought to be a fixed code of laws, rigidly enforced, with a certain punishment for each crime—something similar to the code which obtains in the police court. Then a soldier who disobeys these laws would know just what punishment to ex-pect. Under the present system a soldier, tried by our court martial, might get a sentence, more severe or more lenient than a soldier who commits the very same crime, but is tried by a different court-martial board. In my opinion there ought to be less guard-house sen-tence and more fining done. Let a sollior understand that an infringement of the law is going to cost him the half or half or whole of his months pay and he will be pretty apt to keep straight. For that reason a fixed code of laws and fines ought to be determined upon.

"The percentage of crime among the soldiers during the past year," continued the speaker has perhaps been greater on account of the change of regiments which has taken place. Men who have been stationed at posts far out in the western country, have brought into the "confines of civilization," and they immediately proceed to allow their vicious tendencies full play. This is illustrated in the case of the second and the twelth regiments
